

*English
Quotes
From
The Ringing
Cedars
Of Russia
Books*

By: Ethen Warner

To: Vladimir Megre

Book 1: Anastasia

Only bright rays can travel into Space from Man on the Earth. And only beneficial rays can be reflected from Space back to Earth. p.6

One should eat just as one breathes. p.36

Man can control everything. Man is designed to control everything. p.45

The future and the past are pretty much the same thing. It is only the external details that are different. The essence always remains unchanged. Back a thousand years ago, just like today, people had the same feelings. Feelings are not subject to time. p.48

It is absolutely necessary to keep one's thoughts pure, as the strength of the ray depends on the strength of radiant feelings. p.49

God is the interplanetary Mind, or Intelligence. He is not to be found in a single mass. Half of Him is in the non-material realm of the Universe. This is the sum total of all energies. The other half of Him is dispersed across the Earth, in every individual, in every Man. The dark forces strive to block these particles. p.50

Every Man can talk with any other individual without the aid of a telephone. All that is needed is the will and desire of both parties and a developed imagination. p.51

We would all like to be created under a great impulse of love, the aspiration to creation itself, and not simply come into the world as a result of someone's carnal pleasure. p.64

Humanity is not bad, but the devices of the dark forces obscuring spirituality by provoking base carnal desires - these are very powerful devices. p.65

Everything on Earth, every blade of grass, every insect, has been created for Man, and everything has its individual appointed task to perform in the service of Man. p.75

Every seed you plant contains within itself an enormous amount of information about the Universe. Nothing made by human hands can compare with this information either in size or accuracy. p.77

The chief physician is your own body. Right from the start it was endowed with the ability to know which herb should be used and when. How to eat and breathe. p.80

The dark forces are constantly trying to take the natural operating system of this world and substitute their own cumbersome artificial system which goes against human nature. p.88

Nature and the mind of the Universe have seen to it that every new Man is born a sovereign, a king! He is like an angel, pure and undefiled. p.93

Man in the world of technocracy has never yet invented anything that is not already present in Nature. Even the most perfect manufactured devices are but a poor imitation of what exists in Nature. p.95

You need to talk with your child as an equal. You should bear in mind the thought that he is superior to you in some respects, for example in the purity of his thought. His subconscious knows the truth, and it will penetrate his consciousness all by itself. In general, it is very important to know how to ask your child questions. p.97

Thought-transfer involves not just a more efficient method of information exchange, but getting to know a person's soul, along with the animal and plant world, and what constitutes creation as a whole. p.107

If some kind of man-made object from the artificial world is used as an example, the child will become lost. He will not receive any assistance from the powers of Nature or the Universe. p.107

The propulsion principle of a flying saucer is based on the energy of generating a vacuum. p.109

The Earth has everything that the Universe has. p.112

In the Universe there is no one and nothing stronger than Man except God. p.113

With the computer the most vital element of feelings is missing. p.121

Everything bad that happens to Man is brought on by Man himself, whenever he disobeys the laws of spiritual being and breaks his connections with Nature. p.132

The only thing that can bring you and your child together is your level of mental purity, but few attain that level in your world. You must strive to attain it. p.140

In the whole of the Universe there is no being capable of more powerful development and greater freedom than Man. p.144

God, the Great Mind, created Man and to no one else gave He more than to Man. p.144

Man exists. He exists for those for whom he exists. p.160

No machine will ever be superior to the human brain, provided the brain is kept in constant training. p.166

The sun is something like a mirror. It reflects emanations from the Earth which are invisible to the eye. These emanations come from people in a state of love, joy or some other radiant feeling. p.166, 167

Nobody on the Earth can deny that you can feel when somebody loves you. This feeling is especially noticeable when you are with a person who loves you. For invisible light-waves emanate from the one who loves, and the Love can be felt if it is strong enough, even when the individual is absent. By drawing upon this feeling and understanding its nature, one can do wonders. p.168

Free yourself from any sense of shame and do not be afraid of appearing ridiculous. Humble your pride. p.172

Concepts of time and distance are all relative. These dimensions cannot be measured by metres or seconds, but by the degree of one's conscious awareness and will. The purity of thoughts, feelings and perceptions held by the majority is what determines the place of humanity in time and the Universe. p.172

Man has been granted great freedom, the freedom to choose between the darkness and the light. Man has been given a soul. The whole visible world is subject to Man, and Man is free even when it comes to his relationship to God, to love Him or not to love Him. Nobody and nothing can control Man apart from his own will. God wants Man's love in return for His love, but God wants the love of a free Man, perfect in His likeness. p.173

If a single individual wanted a second sun to flare up in the sky, it would not appear. Things are arranged this way so that planetary catastrophes do not happen. But if everybody together wanted a second sun, it would appear. p.173

Artificial sounds are harmful and lead Man away from the truth. Let only the sounds of the God-created natural world be heard. They carry within themselves truthful information and grace, and increase one's conscious awareness. Then the healing effect will be significantly more powerful. p.175, 176

The forces of darkness lost their bearings for less than a split second, but that was enough for my dream to be snatched up by the forces of light and transported into radiant infinity, well beyond their sight and reach. I extended, just by a little, the dark forces' window of time. p.177

For the Universe it is very important that a bright radiance should emanate from the Earth. The radiance of the light of love and good. p.183,184

Entrepreneurs can only be helped through increasing their sincere, spiritual communication with each other. They need to strive, with complete sincerity, for purity of thought. p.191

Book 2: The Ringing Cedars of Russia

The first thought, the first word was the Creator's. His thoughts still live today, surrounding us unseen and filling universal space, reflected in material, living creations produced for Man. Man is the child of the Creator. And, like any parent, He could wish for His child no less than what He has Himself. He has given him all. And even more, the freedom of choice! Man can create things and perfect the world by the power of his thinking. No thought produced by Man disappears into oblivion. If it is a thought of radiant brightness, it will fill the space of light and rise on the side of the forces of light. A dark thought will fall on the opposite side. And today any Man may make use of any thought produced at any time either by people or by the Creator. p.4

In order to discern the thoughts of the Creator, one must attain a purity of thought appropriate to Him, as well as the pace of His thinking. To discern the thoughts of enlightened people, one must possess their purity of thought and the ability to think at the same rate. If a given Man has insufficient purity of thought to communicate with the dimension of the forces of light, the dimension in which radiant thoughts dwell, then Man will draw his thoughts from their dark counterparts, and will end up suffering himself and causing others to suffer. p.4

Physical diseases appear in Man not just as a result of his withdrawal from Nature around him, and not just as a result of the dark feelings which he allows himself to take in. They can also be a means of warding off or even deliverance from considerably greater torments. Diseases are one of the devices or means of communication between the Supreme Intelligence and Man. Man's pain is His pain, too. But it could not be otherwise. p.27

There are several main causes underlying the diseases of the human flesh, namely: harmful feelings, emotions, an artificial dietary regime such as an unnatural meal schedule and food composition, the lack of short-term and long-term goals, and a misapprehension of one's essence and purpose in life. p.28

Man himself, once he has managed to arouse positive emotions in himself, can use them to extinguish pain and cure the diseases of the flesh, even the effects of poison. p.29

It is inherent in the nature of artificially created matter and various mechanical devices that they bring more problems than pleasures. Their benefit to Man is quite illusory. p.33

The happenings of the present are the result of previous feelings and impulses of the soul, and it is only they that determine the future. And it is only their momentum that is clearly reflected in the heavenly mirrors. And only their impulses and aspirations will be reflected in happenings here on the Earth. p.35

All living beings have an inseparable connection with creation as a whole. p.35

Plants which come into direct contact with an individual Man create for him a Space of true Love. The kind of Love without which life for the human race would be impossible. p.37,38

Plants can create for Man a significant Space of Love if they are of different varieties and Man communicates with them with Love. All together plants can create for Man a significant Space of Love which enhances the soul and makes the body whole. p.38

Knowing that one cannot find a resting-place means death. p.40

By the laws of the Universe nothing can destroy pure Love. Everything in the Universe is interrelated. To perceive what is really going on in the Universe one need only look into one's self. p.41

Any Man can make an appeal to God From time immemorial He Himself has taken great pleasure in talking with Man. And this is what He wills right now. p.45

Future events are dependent on the conscious awareness of those who are living today. p.45

God has no equals. He is One! But He does wish to communicate. He wants people to understand and love Him as He loves. p.46

God has given a particle of His Spirit and Mind to everyone living on the Earth. And if a small particle in Man does not agree with what is generally accepted, that means God is not satisfied with everything as it has been outlined for the future. p.46

Any dogma imposed from without and not grasped by one's inner being precludes taking advantage of the opportunities afforded Man as Creator. p.51

When something significant is created through Man, there are always two opposites at work. Man exercises freedom of choice. Which he will accept more of depends upon his purity and conscious awareness. p.52

God's essence is not in the flesh. He never punishes anyone, and He does not need catastrophes. God is Love. p.53

Once the elements of darkness manifest in Man reach that critical point, in order to avert total self-annihilation, a global catastrophe rushes in which takes away a great many people's lives and crushes the destructive life-support system of artificial creation. The catastrophe serves as a lesson to those who are left alive. p.53

God's answers take form in Man's discovery of a thought spontaneously occurring to himself. He can speak only through His particle that is present in every Man, and this particle is already relaying information to every other part of the individual with the help of the rhythm of vibration. p.54

The forces of darkness try by whatever means they can to prevent the God-reflected particle in Man from acting out its high purpose, to distract Man from communication with it, and through it, with God. p.54

If one particle living in just one single Man is in full contact with God. Then it is impossible for the forces of darkness to overpower his spirit and mind. p.55

It is no good simply threatening Man with a catastrophe, it is no good simply blaming those who do not accept truth. Everyone who brings the truth to others must understand how needful it is to seek a more perfect method of explaining it. p.56

Only through a joint effort will the answer as to how people will listen to truth be seen, and then in a dimension invisible to the eye, the domain of thoughts. One could also call it the dimension of the forces of light. It exists between the material world, in which Man lives, and God. p.58

The Earth tries to absorb into its depths all humanity's anger, and only when it no longer has the strength to hold it back, that anger explodes in the form of volcanic eruptions and earthquakes. Tenderness and a loving attitude give it strength. The Earth needs our help, for it may be large but it is most sensitive. p.64

The greatest conscious awareness is always achieved first by individuals. p.66

Thought is the principal instrument of the Grand Creator. An instrument bestowed alone to Man. p.73

Man's being is not only in the flesh. Man's invisible feelings, aspirations, and sensations are immeasurably sharper and greater than what can be discerned by the eye or ear. As in a mirror, they are but partially reflected in the visible material state. p.77

Nothing in the Universe ever disappears without a trace. p.143, 144

Just as parents try to give their child everything, so the Grand Creator gives everything to each one right off. p.147

Knowledge of the truth consists not in proclaiming it but in living it. To know the truth, one must have a conscious awareness and purity of thought. p.147

Love dissolved in Space for one can touch the hearts of many. p.160

Man is the only creature in the Universe who can live on all planes of existence at once. p.167

The main difference between Man and all other forms of existence lies in Man's ability to create the present and the future by his thoughts, inventing forms and images which are afterward materialised. The clarity, harmoniousness, pace of thinking and mental purity of Man as a Creator is what determines the future. p.167

The whole mass of teachings foretelling the ultimate doom of Man, are hastening the day with their visualisations. p.167

Nobody can see God because His thoughts work with great speed and concentration. He won't slow His thought down because a God who changes the pace of His thinking is no longer a God. p.187

God's children have one purpose, to raise people's conscious awareness by their words, slowing down their own thinking, even at the risk of being misunderstood themselves. However, just speaking words was not enough to raise Man's conscious awareness to a meaningful level. p.188

God is in the flesh, but only partly. His flesh is all the people of the Earth. p.191

Once you begin analysing the whys and wherefores, instead of elation all you get is excavation, which doesn't lead to anything and doesn't change anything. Just try to admire the dawn, if you can. That's the most important thing of all. p.192

All the material things you see around you depend on Man's spirit and conscious awareness. Only by changing themselves within will people change anything around them. p.193

A fool is one who mistakes flattering words for the truth. p.197

Pride creates an unnatural image of Man. it obscures the living soul. That is why the philosophers of the past and the geniuses of today can create so precious little. p.197

You are who you are at the moment. You are who you feel yourself to be. p.198

Religious self-righteousness is the apex of the most deadly sin of pride. p.206

The Great Intelligence of the Universe, God, Who created Man and his environment, no doubt had the foresight to give people the opportunity to restore their lost abilities, to use the wisdom accumulated in the non-material world. This wisdom has existed right from the very start, but Man's ability to perceive it has been lost through sinfulness. A Man who places the palm of his hand on the warm trunk of a ringing cedar and runs his hand over it, as though caressing it, thereby attains the possibility of communicating with the infinite expanse of wisdom. p.212

Belief should be expressed in one's way of life, in one's thoughts and perception of the world. p.216

You cannot love whom you do not know. p.217

People at the time of the Earth's pristine origins enjoyed ready access to all the information in the entire database of the Universe. This information filling the Universe was created by the Great Intelligence, God. p.220

In those far-off times a few people were still left who had free access to the wisdom of the Universe. They hoped that when mankind reached the point that the polluted air made it difficult to breathe and the water became dangerous to drink, and all its artificially created life-support systems proved themselves to be too awkward and more and more often only led to disastrous imbalances, mankind would start having second thoughts. p.222, 223

The deactivation of the usual organs of feeling, sight and hearing, would open up the opportunity for full communication with the Mind of the Universe and the comprehension of many phenomena, as well as of many of the actions of Earth-dwellers. p.225

In breast-feeding an infant the mother should never allow herself to be distracted by random thoughts, but concentrate all her attention on her child. p.228

It is not that frightening to be alone. It is much more frightening when one is lonely even when surrounded by people. p.229

Book 3: Space of Love

Today's reality is the result of yesterday's thinking. p.23

When confronted by sincere love, if it is strong enough, death retreats. The immortality of Man is in his ability to ignite love within himself. p.26

Love is what makes miracles happen. p.27

Man's spirit consists of all the unseen elements in a Man, including certain passions and sensations acquired during the period of existence in the flesh. p.34

Man's spirit is an energy complex, consisting of a multitude of different energies. After the end of a human individual's fleshly existence, certain of these complexes break up into separate energies, which are subsequently used in plant and animal aggregates, as well as in essential natural phenomena. p.35

One who died, or entered into eternal meditation through the dolmen, knew that his soul or spirit would never again be able to take on a material form. It would never again be able to embody itself in earthly flesh, or matter. It would never be able to go far from the dolmen or leave it for any length of time, but it would have the ability to communicate with a particle of the soul of a person living in the flesh who had come to visit the dolmen. p.39

Every substance includes its own kind of information, its own radiance and vibration. p.39

The forces of light are all the bright thoughts ever produced by people. All space is filled with them. Receiving answers from the forces of Light depends on the purity of one's thoughts and the motive for asking. If the answer from the forces of light does not come to you, it means your thoughts and motives are not sufficiently pure. p.47

The greatest energy in the Universe is on the Earth. We need only to understand it. The most powerful energy in the Universe is the energy of Pure Love. All your humanly established installations are not able to supply light to the Earth for any length of time. But the energy of Love can. Love is energy. It is reflected. It is possible to see it. The Sun, the stars, and the visible planets are all but reflectors of this energy. The light of the Sun is created by human love. In the whole Universe the energy of Love is reproduced only in the soul of Man. It takes upward flight, becomes filtered and reflected, and pours itself forth from the planets of the Universe as beneficial light upon the Earth. p.48

To comprehend certain answers of God's, one needs to have a certain level of conscious awareness and purity of thought. p.49

Thoughts in the dimension of Light are always comprehensible. p.49

Real love does not come out of words. Some kind of actions are required. p.50

Every Man must create around himself his own Space of Love, and offer it to his child. Bearing children without preparing a Space of Love for them is criminal. Every Man must create around himself a small Space of Love. And if everyone understood this and acted upon it, then the whole Earth would become the brightest focus of Love in the Universe. This is the way God wanted it, and this is Man's purpose. For only Man is capable of creating such a Space. p.52

You will hear many pure sounds around you in Nature if you are willing to listen. Try imitating them with your voice. These will be your best singing teachers. p.76

It is not good for instinct to gain supremacy in Man. When instinct takes first place, then Man takes second place. The result is something less than Man. p.77

Systems are always calculated to wean the heart and soul away from Man when he is still small and subject to the system. So that he grows up like everyone else, in a way that will fit the system. p.124

It is the aspiration of all the forces of Light in the Universe that each newborn child be endowed with the very best of creation. It is the parent's duty not hide the creative Light under the erudition of invented dogmas. p.125

Words thought up by Man have many meanings. The Creator patiently and lovingly speaks with each one of us through splendid, imperishable acts. The rising of the sun and the silvery sheen of the moon, the soft mist and tender dew, playing with the sun's ray and drinking in the heavenly blue. The Universe is filled with so many clear examples like that. Just look around you. They touch you and everyone else too. p.125

A child provided with the opportunity to communicate with the perfect, living beings of Nature will himself become more perfect than through communication with primitive lifeless objects. p.126

The forces of Light rejoice in the trembling hope that the newly arrived immaculate God-like Man will become their kind ruler and intensify the light of Love from the Earth. p.126

Everything has already been provided for Man by the Creator through a bug, a tree, a blade of grass, a seemingly ferocious beast, the Universe is prepared to be a good nurse for him. p.127

Everyone wants happiness. But they have forgotten the path to happiness. That is why people are perpetrating violence out of good intentions. p.127

Try to look at life with an open heart. Purify thought from vain and fruitless art, and then you will see the world, the Creator of the Universe and yourself. p.128

Let the poetry of the Universe express itself in the way you write. p.128

There is only one indivisible Universe. But in that one Universe each one has his own space, and is responsible for the whole. p.130

Century after century various systems have come and gone, but all with a single goal to kill you, a wise creator, and transform you into a soulless slave. p.131

The Creator is wise. He made everything more simple and to perfection. p.133

From a Man who is free from aggression, selfishness, fear and many other dark feelings which came along later, emanates the Light of Love. Even though it is invisible to the eye, it is stronger than the light of the sun. Its energy is life-giving. The way the Creator arranged things, only Man is endowed with such a tremendous ability. He alone is capable of bringing warmth to all living creatures. That is why all living creatures are drawn to him. p.133

Christ could be born only by a mother who believed that Christ would be born to her, and if the parents have the same attitude to their child as they would to Christ or Muhammed, their offspring will follow this thought. And he will become whoever he aspires to become. People will still explore Nature, and those who are able to feel and become aware of what the Creator has created will be able to make a bright and happy world for their child. p.147

Man creates everything for himself. p.180

Every Man is so constructed that he has access to the whole Universe, both visible and invisible. Every Man can communicate with anything or anyone he wishes. p.187

Man receives directly information he is able to make sense of, understand and use. And all this must take place calmly and quietly, without intrusive attention drawn to greatness. p.188

You need to give intrusive spirits an ultimatum: 'Get out of here, and if you do not, I shall burn you with my thought!' They know very well that Man's thought is many times stronger than they are. p.188

The degree of distortion the receiver is capable of permitting is determined by the purity of the receiver. Only one's own purity is capable of hearing truth undistorted, and if your tuning and purity is insufficient, then you should not blame the source. p.189

A question for which there is no answer in the Universe will immediately speed up the evolution of everything. p.190

It is when you hear more than just words. When suddenly there is a flash of feeling or emotion in the soul and tears of joy in your eyes. And when sensations of warmth and fragrances and sounds are born in you. When you feel within yourself the impulse of urge to co-create and a thirst for purification, you may be sure that you are clearly hearing the thoughts of Light. p.190, 191

When it is simply cold information that comes, an order or command, even one that talks about good, know this: it is not good that is hiding behind good, but an entity not accorded a place in perfection that is trying to persuade you to follow it for its own purposes. p.191

When a person who creates dirt around himself comes to a clean place, he pollutes that place with his very presence. p.192, 192

Conscious awareness is the point of departure for any venture. The aspiration of one's thought finds the most effective path, just like any stream in Nature. p.193

A personality or image cult always distracts Man from the essential thing, from himself. p.201

Artists today are creators in the perception of the world as seen on their own level. But if their consciousness should rise to a higher level, they would create by entirely different means. p.213

The power to perfect God's creations and to make new creations of their own is something God has given to Man alone. p.213

Creations are true when thought is brought to fruition through the soul, intuition and feelings. While the main factor is and will always be: the purity of one's awareness. p.213, 214

Everything is first preceded first by thought. It is only with time it gets embodied in matter or the changing strands of the social order. p.214, 215

Nature will bring everything back to a state of harmony where it can thrive. p.215

All men and women are one, in each of them two principles merge into a single one. And in the creativity they feel, they are inseparable. Earthly existence is there for them both. p.215

Water will prove to be the criterion, the measure of all things. Every day that passes, water seethes with more and more contamination. And the air becomes more difficult to breathe. p.224

People's conscious awareness will transport them across the dark forces' window of time. p.225

For centuries prophets have been prophesying about the frailty and futility of earthly existence, terrifying people with doom and hell's flaming judgement. They are the ones that have made Man's comprehension of Paradise so much harder. p.227

The Creator has given all to each one right from the start, and we need only refrain from hiding the Creator's great creations under the murky domain of dogma and conventions, the murk of inventions for the sake of one's own selfish pride. p.227

Only one's sense of pride can lead people about, lead them away from the Truth. p.232

Book 4: Co-Creation

All the truths in the Universe are preserved forever in every human soul. Lies and falsehoods cannot survive for any length of time. They are exposed by the soul. p.1

Life around us is eternal and it is through the truth that eternal life comes about. p.2

Millions of years go by, but the Creator's information will never be erased. And Man has been given everything by the Creator at the moment of co-creation. All truths and all future achievements have been inculcated by God, inspired by a grand dream, in His beloved child. p.3

You should try to determine the truth with your feelings. Trust yourself to them. Free yourself from mercenary dogmas. p.3

God is the firmament and the empty space, and that which cannot be seen. There is no sense in trying to understand Him with the mind, however keen. p.3

Man feels the unfathomable Divine universal creation not only with his flesh. His God-given thought is at work creating afresh. Human thought alone is capable of creating other worlds or changing what has been created. p.5, 6

In the whole Universe creation is something inherent in God alone, and in God's son, Man. p.6

God gave his son indestructible garments, and his food reserves are not the kind that can ever be exhausted. p.7

Only with your feelings will you be able to grasp the essence of the creation of God's dream. p.7

God's will for Man is Conjoint creation and joy for all from its contemplation.

p.9

Nothing could be higher or stronger than the One energy of the Universe, the energy of the Divine dream. God possessed the energy of the dream. He was able to take in and compile all within Himself into balance, reconcile opposites and begin to create. And to create still within Himself. p.10

Love alone is able to restrain and cage the energy of disdain, hatred and rage.

p.11

The invisible creative light radiating from the Earth was found in the celestial bodies. Up to the moment the Earth appeared, nobody and nothing possessed visible matter. While the Earth came into contact with everything in the Universe, it was an independent body, too. p.13

In their excitement and astonishment all the entities of the Universe began looking to the Earth. The Earth came into contact with everything, but nobody was able to touch it. With God a sense of inner inspiration surged apace. And in the light of Love, which had filled the empty space, the Divine being changed its design, and took the form which in time became known as the human body. p.13

Man's gaze distinguishes all that is earthly, such as the little blades of grass and flowers, the wild beasts and the rocks with sluggish thinking. It is curious, mysterious, full of unexplained power. Man's gaze can be calming. And yet it can also wrap all living creatures in the cold of destruction. p.16

The Creator saw to it that all life aspired to be warmed by this gaze. Inside each one of us a warm heart abides. If each one of us could open it wide to everything, all reality could then be transmogrified into a magnificent pristine garden. p.17

Parents always strive to instil in their children all the very best abilities. Only parents sincerely want their children's abilities to exceed their own. Similarly, the Creator has wholly given Man all to which He Himself aspired in a burst of inspiration. p.17, 18

The first Man aspired to know all living things. To define the name and the purpose or need for each living creature. Some of these were solved quickly, others he became involved with for quite a time indeed. p.18

One certainly cannot live on the air Man breathes today. Today's air is dying, and is often harmful for one's body and soul. The water preserved in air-tight bottles dies for lack of fresh air. All it does is feed the old cells of the body. For new birth, so that the cells of your body may constantly renew themselves, living air and water full of microbes are needed. p.21,22

Man's body was able to live as many years as his spirit or soul wished. p.23

Problems, if they arose at all, were resolved not in a harmful direction, but in such a way as to confirm the perfection of life. p.24

Whatever Man conceives, provided it is not conceived in vanity, will turn into reality. p.28

Man, through his feelings, senses the whole Universe, he knows everything the Universe possesses. p.28

By caressing all creations on the Earth without exception, the rays of the sun will help Man understand that each one in their own soul can hold a conversation with God's soul. p.30

There will still be a major obstacle to any attempt, no matter what its form, to lead people awry or lead them into empty space, and this will be a barrier to anything based on a lie. Within all Mankind there is a striving for a conscious awareness of truth. A lie is invariably bound within limits, but truth is unlimited, it is forever found in the conscious awareness of Man's soul. p.30

Anything God kept back for Himself would be lacking in His gift to Man. p.31

Love has its continuation, and in Man's new creation will be found his continuation. Man's co-creation is in all respects like himself, only not in the flesh. Within it his spirit and soul merge to give birth to a new creation. His aspirations will continue and intensify the joyous sensations multifold. p.40, 41

Man shall fill the whole Earth. He shall know everything through his feelings, and then in other galaxies his dream will recreate the world anew to be even more resplendent. p.41

The Universe itself is a thought, a thought from which was born a dream, which is partially visible as matter. When Man approaches the edge of all creation, his thought will reveal a new beginning and continuation. p.41

Feel the visible creations of God, but do not try to analyse them. Nobody in the whole Universe will find that they can analyse them simply with their mind. p.41

God is in you. Everything is in Man. He is the master of all the diverse energies of the Universe. God has counterbalanced all the opposite extremities of the Universe in Man, thereby making him a new creature. Do not allow any of these extremities to hold sway within you. Then God shall be in you always. Man is in his creation. Inside Man there is a particle of God, and so God is in your creation, too. p.42

Love is one and the same, but there is greater hope in each new embodiment and dream. p.42

For a long time death in himself was something Man could not have even missed. Which means that death, back then, could not even exist. p.42

Each one must learn to make sense of things with his own soul. p.43

The glow of love emanating from the Earth keeps on getting smaller, and for a long time now the sun's reflection should have been decreasing, too. But God with His energy is constantly intensifying the life-giving power of even the sun's rays. p.44

Time does not exist for God. As with any loving parent, He never loses faith. And it is thanks to that faith that all of us are living right now. And we ourselves arrange our lives as we see fit, using the freedom granted to us by the Creator. p.45

Everywhere there are living elements invisible, the vast majority of them resembling Man's second self. Also among the elements of the Universe there are complexes of energies similar to God. Similar, yes, but they are not God. They have momentarily equalised the multitude of energies within themselves, yet are not capable of producing living creations in harmony. The harmony of the Earth and the interrelationship among all things, that is something no other elements of the Universe have been able to achieve. p.45, 46

Man has been given the power to create in the space on the Earth as well as on other worlds. What he thinks up in his dream will be turned into reality. Only do not try to figure out how, by what power, it all comes about. p.47

Love is free, subject to no one and, preserving its loyalty to God, is in the service of Man alone. p.49

Man is made in such a way that there is nothing he needs to examine in detail. The structure of everything is included in Man himself, in what you might call an encoded format. The code is deciphered when he tunes into his dream of inspired creativity. p.50

God's creations not only do not break down, but are capable of recreating themselves by way of autogenesis. p.51

Wrong actions will continue as long as the original thought is not changed. p.53

The material plane of earthly being does not embody everything thought of all at once. Slowness in matter was given by the Creator to allow people time to think things through. p.54

Every Man has their own beauty. It is only that not all of them are given the opportunity to reveal this treasure. p.57

The Creator is capable of feeling and understanding when normal communication is initiated. p.61

Every Man fashions the destiny of his own soul. The material plane of being is subject to no one. It is under the complete control of Man himself. p.70, 71

Not under orders and not through fear, people will use their freedom of choice to determine their own path to conjoint creation and joy from its contemplation. p.71

Disease and pain are not natural for Man, they are the effect of choosing the wrong path in life. p.90

In the face of but a single image, provided it is genuine and untainted by mercenary interests, all the armed troops of the Earth are useless, whether they carry spears or any other deadly weapons. Before this image all warriors fall to the ground, powerless. p.98

A hen's egg will bring forth a hen's chicken. A duck's egg will give birth to a duckling. An eagle's egg will bring an eagle into the world. Whatever you feel yourself to be, that is what you will bring forth. p.102

A creator will never bring himself to entreat. One who creates is capable of giving of himself. p.102

The science of imagery is a science that allows Man to accelerate his thought and think in terms of images, to grasp the whole of the Universe at once and penetrate a microcosm, to create invisible yet still living substance-images and use them to control a large community of people. p.113

Our lawmakers cannot learn wisdom when the science of imagery is kept secret. That is why we have chaos in many nation-states. p.116

Without an image no state can get by even today. Today it is only the state in which the governing image is the most acceptable to the majority of people that flourishes compared to other states. p.118

Only the owner of a body can fully dissolve it or split it into atoms. To teletransport one must have pure thoughts and the ability to think quickly in images, to visualise in specific detail one's self, a strong will, and faith in one's self. p.128, 129

On account of the general bustle, as well as all sorts of dogmas and various contrived problems, people are losing more and more the ability to control their own selves. They are losing the capacity for imaginative thinking. p.130

Controlling your dreams comes about with the help of the energy of thought, and its ability to free any reality for penetration into images. p.132

Man's complex of feelings would not be complete without his body. Matter is one of the planes of Man's being. With it Man is stronger than the elements of the Universe. p.157

Man could be caressed by everything in the Universe, but for that to happen he would need to join together all planes of being into a single point, call it his home, and create with his own self a Space of Love therein. p.161

The most important thing is that even today everyone can build a home. Everyone can feel God with their soul and live in Paradise. One single moment is all that separates Paradise from people living on the Earth today. People have God's ability within them to turn what they conceive into reality. p.178

Love tries to stay with everyone forever, but Man chooses his own way of life, and this way of life frightens the energy of Love. Love cannot give inspiration to annihilation. p.195

Love aspires to the Divine creation. It can forever warm the heart of one who agrees to co-create with it a Space of Love. p.196

Raising children also means raising yourself. p.198

Man has a second self, which should include a full set of all forms of energy. Intellect, feelings, thought and much else besides. p.198

The technocratic world aims to prevent the three most important points in newly born children from merging into one. First is parental thought, for thought is the origin of everything. Where two together are contemplating a splendid creation before conception. Second, the wife who has conceived should stay around the spot she conceived for nine months during her pregnancy. Third, the spot where the conception occurred the birth should also take place. p.199

Everything in the Universe is arranged so that those souls who are called by good memories from the Earth are the first to be reembodied in material form. Called not by ritual, but by genuine feelings. p.204

Your ancestors both close and distant will endeavor to watch over you. In three generations their souls will once again be embodied on the Earth. p.205

Emotions and feelings can accelerate thought by a factor of many times. In the future schools, teachers and parents are united in their aspirations and children consider themselves to be equal with adults. p.225

The answers to all questions are right here in Space. We need only know how to perceive them and make them manifest. p.228, 229

The spiritual and the material needs to all be felt in equal measure. Then you'll be able to take a solid stand in life, with both feet planted firmly on the ground. When one predominates over the other, it is like a person going lame. p.230

Book 5: Who Are We?

Man's thought is capable of materialising and changing the shape of objects, predetermining events, and creating the future. p.4

Those who are able to comprehend their purpose and the meaning of infinity will start to live a happy life, eternally reembodying themselves, for themselves will produce with their thoughts their own infinity of happiness. p.4, 5

Let what is artificial be pressed into service on behalf of what is good. p.15

Nature is a perfect mechanism, and nobody has yet fully fathomed it. Every part of this great living mechanism has its purpose and is closely interconnected with the whole structure of the Universe. A change in properties or the removal of a single part inevitably affects the work of the whole mechanism of Nature. Nature has many protective devices. First, it will signal an impermissible action. If that does not work, Nature will be obliged to destroy the individual who fails in his calling. Man uses the fruits of Nature for food, and if he begins to feed himself with mutant fruits, he will be gradually transformed into a mutant himself. p.93, 94

Everyone can supply their own definition of who we are if they manage to free their thought for at least nine days. p.95

The technocratic world can only exist when the freedom of Man's thought is nullified and the energy of his thought is absorbed by it. p.96

Each individual is unique. He is more important than all the galaxies taken together, for he is capable of creating them. p.99

Your child's education begins with your own education, with setting up a happy existence for yourself, with your own attempts to get in touch with God's thoughts. p.150

The parade of worldly rulers, no matter what grand temples they might have built, will be remembered only by the filth they have bequeathed to their descendents. p.159

Anything we construct artificially, even if it is for worship, is temporal, just like religion itself. p.159

No artificial instrument is capable of reproducing what resonates in the soul of Man. p.185

Only Man's desires and aspirations can launch any kind of programme of action. p.245

The more substantial and bright the goal, the more the forces of light are drawn to fulfil it. To bring it about. p.246

Worship does not mean love. It only exhausts the worshipper's power of thought, a power exclusive to Man. p.248

A new millennium will soon be given birth in which the gods will settle the Earth, people whose conscious awareness will allow them to accept this energy in all its worth. p.249

Death only exists for the flesh. In every other aspect death is a dream. p.257

The thoughts of a dream can set a tremendous energy in motion. Man creates a future for himself through his dream, through the thoughts he cherishes. p.259

Book 6: The Book of Kin

With children one must be absolutely sincere and truthful. p.65

To fight against darkness, you have to know where to find it, what forms it takes. It is essential to know everything about your enemy. p.74

The bodies of the deceased should be buried in their own domain with no special headstone to mark the burial place. The grass and flowers, trees and bushes that come up will be the continuation of the life of their bodies. p.82

Death is not a tragedy, it is only a dream. Shorter or longer makes no difference. Man should enter into any dream contemplating what is beautiful. Then his soul will not suffer. Through his thoughts Man can create a Paradise, or anything else for his soul.

p.83

Ultimately, a degradation of consciousness and an insufficient purity of thought, coupled with knowledge and opportunity at the highest level would always lead mankind to a global disaster.

p.95

When an image was born by a perverted consciousness upon the Earth, an image which desired to exercise control over everybody, that was when the first war began.

p.95, 96

By falling asleep the Vedruss, unconquered, remained alive on all planes of being. And this happy civilization is dormant right to this day, and will continue to sleep until those who are awake search out the mistake in the image age. That same mistake that led the Earth's civilization to its present-day situation.

p.96

Today's reality, along with the past and the future, is something that needs to be determined only within one's self, with one's own soul.

p.100

Man's purpose is to learn about all his surroundings and create perfection in the Universe. To create the likeness of the world of the Earth in other galaxies. And with each new creation of his to add more splendour to earthly creations.

p.101

Once Man becomes aware of the whole harmony of the Earth, he will be able to contribute his own splendour. Man takes it upon himself to take account of his actions once in every million years. Whenever he makes a mistake and allows one of the many diverse energies he contains to dominate at the expense of the rest, a global catastrophe takes place. Then everything starts again from the beginning. This has happened many times.

p.102

During the Vedic Age God is known to Man. All God's feelings are inherent in Man, and through them Man is able to obtain any advice he needs directly from God.

p.102

Important is the culture of feelings, which are capable of compressing all knowledge into a tiny nucleus. Feelings represent a tremendous amount of concentrated information. And the clearer and stronger the feeling, the more knowledge of the Universe it contains.

p.123

When one experiences a vivid feeling, a large amount of information passes through Man in a flash. It would require a whole scholarly treatise just to describe it, which could take years to work out without the aid of feelings. A correct complex of feelings sequenced in the right order can multiply a Man's existing store of knowledge by a thousandfold. The balance of feelings is very important. It is a confirmation of Man's equilibrium, yet at the same time, as though constantly pulsating, feelings engender more and more streams of information. p.124, 125

Free from daily routine and the multitude of concerns that occupy us today, the human memory could take in a great deal more information than the best computer that has been invented in our times. p.128,129

Without truth, life bogged down in false dogmas is like a hypnotic sleep. p.130

Just a single sincerely asked question, together with the parents' desire to hear their child's answer, is capable of uniting parents with their children, of making them happy forever. p.132

What was important is that the Vedruss did not analyse life, they created it. p.136

Back then, in the Vedic age, everything was determined for Man by his God-given feelings. And the slightest sensation of hunger was satisfied by the Space of Love back then. p.139

Laws can never protect one from evil deeds. p.143

While the human soul is eternal, the material body, too, cannot disappear without a trace. All objects, even those which appear to be soulless carry within themselves a great deal of information from the Universe. In the Divine Nature nothing ever disappears into oblivion. It only changes its state and its fleshly form. p.144

The spirits of the deceased Vedruss lingered over their Space, loving and protecting the children. p.145

The soaring soul passes through all the dimensions of the Universe, and after visiting a number of different planes of being, it once again is embodied in conventional human form. p.145

Cemeteries are a markedly recent phenomenon, designed to tear human souls apart in hellfire to demean, subjugate, and make them into lowly slaves. p.145

Amidst the piles of artificial stone people do not dwell, they sleep. p.146

The thought of Man is an energy unparalleled anywhere in space. It is capable of creating marvellous worlds on the one hand or, on the other, weapons capable of destroying the planet. p.148

Nature's devices are far more perfect and complex than anything artificial. p.149

To make it easier to use collective thought for the benefit of the majority without wasting time getting a whole lot of people to congregate in one place, people invented images of various gods and began to control Nature with their help. p.150

Unlimited opportunity has been given to Man by the Divine Nature. If Mankind could only overcome the temptations associated with unlimited authority and hold all the energies of the Universe in perfect balance within themselves, then gardens as the fruit of human thought would appear in other galaxies. p.150

An image is an entity of energy invented by human thought. The ability to create images is something only Man is endowed with. The image created by Man can remain in space only so long as it is held in Man's thought, either by a single Man or by several at once. p.151

No matter how omnipotent a monster may seem, once it is forgotten it ceases to exist altogether. p.153

The Egyptian priests directed their efforts to gaining single-handed control of the world as a whole. And even more than that, they meditated on how to resurrect their own world, distinct from the world God had created. p.157

Jesus tried to deprogram his people and to use his manifest gift for acquiring new wisdom to prevent the priests from carrying out their designs. Jesus' religion was not for all the nations upon the Earth. It was intended only for the Jewish people. p.159

The weapons of the priests aren't primitive swords or bullets, but cunning and the creation of a way of life subjecting all the world's peoples to occultism. In other words, to the selfish pride of the priests. p.160

Most rulers are dependent on someone else, as the Jews have demonstrated quite clearly. One could go on exploring this topic for a long time, but the answer is simple: In the occult world everybody lives by deceit. p.163

What happened in Vedism was that people spoke with God through Nature. Instead of bowing down before Him, they attempted to understand Him. p.186

When millions of happy Earth families begin to consciously transform the planet into a flourishing garden, the harmony reigning on the Earth will have an effect on other planets and the whole space of the Universe. p.235

In consciously communing with Nature, Man communes with the Divine thought. To understand Space is to understand God. p.235

Book 7: The Energy of Life

The creation of all material objects, life situations and social phenomena is preceded by the energy of thought. p.17

Man's thought has access to energy unsurpassed. Many of the creations of this energy are either dismissed as magic or counted as miracles and ascribed to a higher power. p.18

It used to be that iconographers knew about the properties of the great energy of thought. Before approaching a particular work, they fasted to cleanse their body of impurities, at the same time intensifying their thought. Then they entered into a state of detachment, focusing their energy on a single task, the painting of the icon. p.18

People sometimes see unusual phenomena, or various kinds of angels. But note that people invariably see only what they are thinking about. They invariably see only the images they believe in. p.18

Thought is the precursor to everything. p.25

Thought, in the complete sense of the word, is native only to Man. p.33

Definitions must arise freely, on the level of feelings and not just intellect, in order to be as accurate as possible. p.34

p.42 It is impossible to love someone without seeing, feeling, or understanding God.

God possesses all Man's feelings, only with Him they are stronger, sharper and purer. p.43

p.44 God believes in His creation, Man. It is His own faith that is truly the Divine faith.

Man distinguishes himself from all others by the speed of his thinking. p.47

Through the sounds of Nature and the power of the light of the heavenly bodies our ancestors had access to the database of the Universe. p.66

There are no diseases of the human flesh which cannot be overcome by the Space of Love you have created. p.85

A single creator inspired by love is stronger than all the sciences combined, which are deprived of love. p.155

p.186 The criterion for determining the significance of a book is people's way of life.

A new thought embodies itself in a new way of life for society. p.189

To teletransport one must mentally visualise all the cells of the body, down to the tiniest ones which aren't even visible under a microscope, and disperse them into space with one's thought. Then you gather them together by the power of thought in the new place. p.193

The material human body is one of the many elements comprising a Man. Man can live without a material body, only then he would have to be called something else. The material body affords a visible opportunity to define the degree of harmonious balance among all the other energies. p.194

Book 8.1: The New Civilisation

Love can flow from Man as has never before been seen. Every living creature on the Earth needs the energy of Love just as it needs air, sunshine and water. And even sunlight is but a reflection of this great energy emanating from Man. p.31

Living water needs to be open and absorb sunlight. With the aid of sunlight, organisms are generated which are indispensable to human life. p.41

Man is created to think, and thoughts in turn form images. p.147

Eternity awaits those who are co-creating a future for their children, and not just for their children but for themselves too. For the first time on Earth, Man who is born for eternity will come back to eternity. p.217

It is not the words that are important, but rather people's conscious awareness. A conscious awareness of eternal life will help perfect Man's way of life. p.220

God has hid nothing from people, from children who are His very own. He has written no scholarly tomes. Everything by example He has shown. And the first thing everyone needs to understand and feel is which of Man's actions lead him to eternity. p.222

It was God who determined Man's purpose and destiny, as well as the programme of development for all life in the Universe. To attain the required understanding, Man needs to refrain from destroying God's programme and to study for all he's worth the purpose of everything on the Earth. p.223

God created Man immortal. To witness this, only three conditions are required to be observed. The first condition is to create a living Space that will attract Man to itself and to which Man has aspired. Second, there should at least be one person on the Earth who thinks of you with kindness and love. The last condition is to never even admit the thought that you can be overtaken by death. p.223

The Universe does not stand by and allow a life-creating thought to die. p.224

God's programme is selecting the best of everything for a re-embodiment. p.224

The new civilisation will be characterised by a new conscious awareness as well as by new perceptions of the surrounding world. p.224

The existence of a Mind is the union of two great principles, Mind and Anti-mind. The Mind of the Universe is the union of opposites. Man also reflects this union of opposites within himself. p.230

Love is infinite and eternal throughout the Universe. p.236

The love between two people is capable of breathing life into any planet. p.237

Whoever chooses life and creates living life will be eternal and resemble the Grand Creator of the Universe. Whoever visualises death in his imagination is doomed to die by his own thought. p.237

Book 8.2: Rites Of Love

Love alone is capable of raising any Man's well-being to the highest possible level. p.8

Love is the essence of the cosmos. Living, thinking, with an advanced intellect. It is powerful, giving its energy as a gift to Man. It is imperative to try to understand Love, and not be shy about paying attention to it even on the national level. p.9

Any world that forgets the wisdom of its age-old forebears deserves derision. p.10

Love is the greatest and most powerful energy in the Cosmos. It is never thoughtless. It has thoughts and its own feelings too. Love is a living, self-sufficient entity, a living being. p.16

The first people had no sense of fear or aggression. It was Love that was dominant in them, along with a genuine interest in the world around them. Consequently, it was no effort to domesticate or train wild animals. Their primary concern was to determine the purpose of every creature they encountered on the Earth. This they did. As far as the animals go they find their own highest benefit in Man's feelings of love and care for them. p.59

A Man living in Love is incapable of killing. p.60

Love among slaves is a most unhappy love. In order for the feeling of Love ignited in young people to be preserved, one's own Space is required. If it is not there, Love as a rule, vanishes. p.84

Our family chain leads us to God. To betray one's forebears' meaning of life is tantamount to killing God within one's self. p.93

The only social structure that can claim perfection is one where there is no centralised authority, where every individual is endowed with equal power. p.97, 98

The degree of civilisation of any given state needs to be judged on the basis of the number of happy, loving families therein. p.99

Vedruss people considered the primary birth to be not the appearance of the body, but the illumination of Love. p.100

The parade of merry festivals in the Vedruss period was a system that helped people learn about the order of the Universe and, in turn, teach their children the simple wisdom of life. p.121

Love is capable of scanning the thoughts of any wise-man. p.127

If you wish to know God, you must become like a God yourself. p. 128

Those who are born in Love will understand who their mother and father are. p.151

Sex is a mere mockery of Love and a debasement to God. The satisfaction of fleshly needs last but for a moment. Sex cannot compare with even a fraction of the joy that has been determined in God's plan for Man. p.152

People were not drawn to each other by the passion of copulation, but by the grand aspiration to co-creation. p.152

The place of their conception served the Vedruss as a place to sleep and to become consciously aware of the whole order of the Universe. p.154

Upon our generation has fallen the great honor and grace of restoring the culture of our forebears. Only then will great discoveries begin to take place among mankind.

Only then will their thoughts be able to help ours. For now, their thoughts in view of our lack of understanding, feel constrained to withstand us. p.158

Birth is the highest form of joint creation between a man and a woman. It is the apex of achievement of their thoughts, feelings and intellect. p.159

The physiology involved in the formation of the human flesh was programmed by the Creator and is quite capable of developing all by itself, without bothering the mother or father with a need to control this process. On the other hand, the psychology and philosophy of birth is a process on an immeasurably higher level. It is wholly dependent on the mother and father. It is a joint creation by Man and God. p.160

The appearance of pain at the moment of birth is a sign of an erroneous psychological approach to the birth process on the part of the parents. p.160

Over the nine months all the information about the marvellous order of the Universe is imparted to the child. p.161

To be born of the child's own free will is of great and extraordinary significance. All the information imparted by God during a birth like this will be preserved in the child. p.162

When a husband talks with his pregnant wife, the foetus conceived does not understand the parents' words. It does not really comprehend the meaning of the words uttered to their full extent, but acutely perceives the feelings of the parents. It is through the mother's and father's feelings that the child feels the surrounding world outside his mother's womb. p.165

The phenomena of telegony attests to the fact that someone who is not yet conceived, but just waiting his turn in the conception queue, can absorb information about the father. p.167

Just as soon as intimacy occurs between a man and a woman, a spirit is born in space, ready for a material embodiment. The spirit of the child appears whenever the man experiences an orgasm. It is precisely the man's colossal energy, and the lightning speed at which it is released that forms a spirit. p.167, 168

A father who possesses a thorough knowledge can shape his child's spiritual and intellectual self. It is the father in particular who is responsible for the higher-level components of Man, and in this his role is indeed God-like in Nature. It is the father who gives birth to Man's spiritual component. p.169

Over the nine-month period, a pregnant woman whose husband is absent should spend at least three hours a day communicating with her child in the father's name, sometimes also conversing mentally with the father about the future child. p.174

The birth of advanced spiritual thinkers is especially important in this age of scientific and technological progress. p.187

As long as there are at least nine people on the planet who are striving for conscious awareness of the Divine earthly being, the Vedruss civilization is alive. p.209

A period of chaos and mistakes was needed so that mankind might have a complete account of it and not repeat it in the future. p.210

Every mother knows her own child better than anyone else. There is no single formula for achieving the desired result. It will be different for every mother. The main thing is to achieve one's goal. p.222

When Man's request to the planets corresponds to God's programme. It is treated by the planets as a great gift, giving them a feeling of pride in themselves and in Man. p.224

The power of various cosmic energies can erase unpleasant reminiscences of one's past life from human memory, making room for new, bright sensations. p.225

Book 10: Anasta

People see any person's appearance as beautiful if his deeds are beautiful. p.79

The entire immense Space of the Universe is filled with energy entities. When God created Man, He took an equal amount of energy from each of the entities, brought them into inner balance in some unknown way, and gave them to the person He created. Out of everything, God created Man with inner balance. p.101

A Man doesn't feel the opposites within him, especially when he manages to balance his particles within him. When they are in balance, a third energy appears. And this third is found solely in the Universal entity that is Man. It appears when the opposites are in complete balance, and this new energy is all-powerful. It's capable of creating new worlds. No secrets exist for it. This kind of person becomes a master of the Universe, a creator, and no one can even imagine his creations. They can be magnificent and unfathomable. p.102, 103

During a technocratic period of life, people cease to be intelligent beings. It is necessary to appeal not to their minds, but through their feelings to inform them about the essence of the Divine program. And in order to do this one has to sense and comprehend it for oneself. p.113

It's impossible to completely comprehend God's program. Completion is cessation of motion and there is no limit to how much we can perfect. p.113

All animal offspring adopt their parents' habits and skills. That means that each new generation will be a bit more perfected than the previous one, and if Man correctly determines all animals' life purposes, and if each subsequent generation continues perfecting the animal world around it, a world that will free man from all everyday concerns. Then in the same way Man's thought will be freed up for more important achievements. p. 113

A living thing is self-contained, and at the same time it can be no more than a tiny particle of the living picture that is great in its beauty. You can perfect this living picture, for there is no limit to perfection, and it is in accordance with the Creator's program to move toward it. p.113, 114

As Man perfects the divine world order, Man himself will become more and more perfected, and there is no limit to be seen to this phenomenon. Great resources will open up before him. p.114

Creation in divine, living Nature perfects the Creator. And there is no end in sight to the heights such great creation can reach, there is eternity. p.114, 115

Man's thought is the most powerful energy of the Universe. There is no limit to its potential. It's important to learn how to use it properly. But how to do this, using what means is unknown. Only Man has the power to make this great discovery. p.115

Thought, as the strongest energy, remains uncontrolled. First it heads off in one direction, then in another. Even though it's inside Man, it's still not his if Man doesn't learn to control it in any way. Someone might then manage to lure Man's thought over to them and play with it and Man won't even know about it. p.119

Universal entities can take action. It's not their business to remain indifferent. When they're indifferent, then they do not exist. p.130

Man has replaced the home, a living space formed by a person's thought and reflecting his thought capacity, with an artificial stone cell. Man has called it a 'home' as some kind of travesty of Rationality. The Universe is not in need of their limited thought. It is becoming a breeding ground for anti-rationality and develops and strengthens its might. And this breeding ground is growing larger and larger. p.133

The ones who have simultaneously experienced both anti-rationality and Rationality, will unite what is opposite within themselves, in harmony. And they will bring to life the Divine impulse of God's dream in matter and spirit. Not simply will they bring it to life. To it they will add their dream's perfection. p.143

Information is an image. An image is information. If someone decides he wants to erase information within you, he'll try to prove to you that the image doesn't exist in reality. And as soon as you agree with the image's lack of reality, then you yourself erase the information you've taken in from the image. p.145, 146

Every person can think up an image, but people will not accept every image with their whole heart and soul. p.147

Man himself is an image that has taken material form, and since he is a materialized image, Man himself can use his thought to create and can materialize images. This is where his Universal power, a power unsurpassed by no one and no thing lies. p.147

If this or that person doesn't recognize the capabilities within him that have been given him by the Creator, then that person himself blocks his lofty power and falls under the influence of other images and materializes their thought, until finally he destroys himself, his family, his family line, his state and the whole planet. p.147

The artificial, technocratic world was also created by Man using the energy of an image suggested to Man by his antipodes. The technocratic world is fragile and transitory. Even the most advanced car, building, or any other object of the artificial world disintegrates with each second and within but a few years turns to dust or into waste products harmful for Man. Man himself, by living in the artificial world, becomes fragile and transitory as well. For it is hard for a person who spends each minute looking at a multitude of disintegrating objects that lack autogenic capability, to imagine eternal life, to create and materialize the image of his own eternity. p.147,148

The Natural world that is visible to us has existed not for billions of years, but for significantly longer. For in the beginning it already existed as a yet, non-materialized image. p.148

The natural world possesses the capability of autogenesis and this capability renders it eternal. The Creator, who created eternity, is himself the very same. By giving birth out of nothing the Creator completed the circle and presented to Man the image of eternity. p.148

The knowledge, understanding and perception of the energy of the image within him enables Man to not die, but rather drift off into an ambrosial sleep. Upon awakening, Man incarnates in the spot, time, and image created by him before his sleep. Gaining knowledge of the science of imagery leads to understanding the entire Universe created by the Creator, and to the creation of new and beautiful worlds. p.149

Lack of knowledge and understanding of the science of imagery leads to unskillful interaction with the perfected, natural world, and to the creation of an artificial, primitive world. It turns entire states and peoples into puppets in the hands of those who are acquainted with this great gift. p.149

Every person has his own image. Each differs strikingly from the others. It is through your own image that you will discern the value of any information. p.149

Our primeval image is the child of God and it lies within ourselves. Go out to meet it. And joyfully will it rush toward you. Joyful will the path be. Gradually coming nearer and nearer to each other, you will one day encounter each other and unite. Safeguard your primeval image. Do not give it to others for their own delight. p.150

Everything exists that you yourself believe to exist. p.150

A person isn't able to remember all his relatives and continually think about them and recall them, but he can plant a small grove of family trees, preferably ones that live a long time. p.156

When a person's body is buried on the homestead he himself established, his soul does not fly off into the Universal darkness. It remains on the family homestead, for it is there that the person planted trees and communed with the land. The soul, which cannot see or hear anything but can feel, will sense the warmth that the plants give it, and besides that, the person's descendants will recall him more often as they come into contact with what he created. p.158

Perfect the dwelling land. These are the most important of words for all the divine programs. With their help, it is possible to determine the degree to which both an individual person and mankind as a whole are necessary for the Universe. With their help it is possible to determine the usefulness or uselessness of the earthly laws conceived by people. p.161

Perfecting the dwelling land perfects yourself. All that exists within the Universe and on Earth represents through itself a united dwelling land inseparably interconnected, and with Man in the center. Perfect the dwelling land means to give birth and raise children who are more perfected than yourself. Each generation should be more perfected than the previous. For this to come about, the generation that comes before should present the following generation with a more perfected dwelling land. The perfected dwelling land quickens and refines Man's thought. In perfecting the dwelling land, Man comes to know immortality and Man turns the Earth into the most perfected planet of the Universe. Earthly perfection permits Man to perfect other planets of the Universe. Universal perfection permits Man to create new worlds. p.162

The way you imagine the future to be is the way it will come to pass. p.164

Imparting your intentions to all means imparting it to yourself as well. It means comprehending what is taking place and believing in yourself. That which we do not impart in words dies along with the physical body. p.200, 201

Intentions should be preserved not only in text, but in the hearts of the people. p.202

Any technocratic achievement is preceded by a person's act of losing the memory of his biological capabilities. p.265

The first civilization possessed potentials greater than did God Himself. They made use of all that was originally created by God. A person of this civilization would study the divine creations and, with their help, would perfect his dwelling land. The divine creations are perfected, but each generation must be more rational than the preceding one. Such is the way God programmed it. It could be no other way. Were it another way, God could not be called God, and His creations, lacking the potential for becoming perfected, would represent the end of creation. Man is the beginning of a great creation. p.269

At the moment of their disappearance, the people of the first civilization inconceivably erased all information about their achievements from the Universal database. Perceiving themselves as in control of the fates of Universal worlds, the people of the first civilization also recognized within themselves the germs of the anti-world, anti-rationality virus and understood that they lacked within themselves sufficient immunity to it. At that point they detonated themselves psychologically, along with their achievements, leaving on Earth those who were more infected with the virus of anti-rationality than the others. So that they could follow it to its conclusion and come to fully know the dimension of anti-rationality. Now we will come to know conclusively the essence of anti-rationality, and the instant before the planetary disaster occurs we will bring rationality and anti-rationality into balance within ourselves. All the achievements of the first earthly civilization will open up within us in a new and more perfected form. p.273

The Universe always reacts when interesting new information appears. p.274

Man will never become a God. Each person is the child of God. And God wanted His children to be more perfected than He Himself. And they most certainly will be by bringing anti-rationality and Rationality into balance within themselves. p.295

For millions of years, there has existed a multitude of teachings. And all about one and the same thing. That mankind should live in expectation of receiving something from someone. mankind has done so, closing off its thought and rationality. It has not thought about why and to what end the Universe lights up the stars above Man. p.296

When a woman sees a more perfected dwelling land than the one she's previously been in, the desire to bear a child immediately awakens within her, along with an attraction to the man who's connected to this land. p.309